Report Invalidates Claims of County Racism and Corruption

△ Community members push for independent investigation

The Black Voice News

RIVERSIDE

By Mary Shelton

A strategy to divide and conquer dictated a contentious Riverside County Board of Supervisors meeting on July 27 that addressed the findings of an investigation into allegations of racism and corruption inside the Human Resources Department.

The public report stated that no claims of racism or corruption involving the department or Director Ron Komers could be sustained. The five White male supervisors voted quickly to accept those findings, ignoring community members' cries for an independent investigation.

Allegations raised by Riverside County Employee Relations Manager Debrah Freeman at an April 13 meeting triggered the investigation. Freeman, who is Black, alleged that racism impacted the department, including its hiring, discipline and promotion of African-Americans. Misappropriation of county resources, conflict of interest violations, interference with grand jury investigations and other forms of corruption were also alleged.

Community members had urged the supervisors to conduct an independent, impartial investigation. Instead, the county hired Jack Clarke, Jr., a partner from the law firm, Best, Best and Krieger to do it. Many people said that the firm's specialization in defending Riverside county governments constituted enough

Senator Calls Prison Labor Pact "Policy Swindle"

△ Jackie Speier Says, "Warning of State Prison Takeover Overdue"

The Black Voice News

LOS ANGELES

By Chris Levister

State Senator Jackie Speier (D-San Mateo/San Francisco), calling the renegotiated contract between the state and correctional officers a "policy swindle," has hailed federal judge Thelton Henderson for warning that he will place the Department of Corrections under federal receivership if it fails to take the "necessary corrective actions." "This action is overdue," Speier says.

Speier, chair of the Senate Select Committee on Government Oversight, said the Memo of Understanding (MOU) between the state and the California Correctional Peace Officers Associations (CCPOA) makes a mockery of all the work done to shed light on widespread abuses within the state's beleaguered $6-billion prison system. "Alarms are sounding and the Administration must respond. The contract must be renegotiated. The Legislature must reject this bad deal," Speier said.

In an unprecedented move for the California State Legislature, on Monday the state Senate convened an "Ad Hoc Committee" to evaluate the prison labor contract recently renegotiated with the Schwarzenegger administration. The new MOU, originally touted as saving the state up to $108 million and curbing CCPOA's influence, has since come under fire by Judge Henderson and several legislators for having the opposite effect — namely for further entrenching the peace officer's control over the Department of Corrections.

Speier says, "The state relinquishes important management powers to the CCPOA in trade for a deferral of pay raises for correctional officers. There is not structural reform in the proposed contract, no permanent spending cuts — only more perks for the CCPOA. I have encouraged my peers to vote 'no' on the revised contract and to vote to send the state and the CCPOA back to the bargaining table."

Judge Henderson's takeover warning marked another chapter in a long-running dispute that began as a civil rights case involving Pelican Bay State Prison, on California's North Coast. Ruling on that suit in 1995, Henderson found that brutality by guards and poor medical care at the prison had violated the rights of inmates. The San Francisco-based judge has requested a meeting with the gov-

West Nile Virus: What You Need To Know

The Black Voice News

INLAND EMPIRE

By Ernest C. Levister, MD, FACP, FACP

West Nile virus (WNV), a potentially serious illness, is a mosquito-borne infection. The virus has a decisive foothold throughout California, claiming the life of a Santa Ana man and turning up in dead birds in San Bernardino County. Sixteen California counties have confirmed cases of the virus. To date, 35 Californians have tested positive for the virus, including 20 in San Bernardino County, eight in Los Angeles County, six in Riverside County and the single Orange County fatality.

WNV was first discovered in an adult woman in the West Nile District of Uganda in 1937. It arrived in New York City in 1999. The most serious infection is encephalitis or meningitis. WNV is established as a seasonal epidemic in North America that flares up in the summer and continues into the fall. WNV has become part of the permanent medical landscape of California.

WNV virus symptoms vary from none to attacking the central nervous system. Five to 20 percent of infected individuals have symptoms. The balance never knows that the virus has invaded their body. One out of 150 symptomatic patients develops a serious illness. Symptoms can include high fever, headache, nausea and vomiting. More serious symptoms include neck stiffness, weak muscles, and convulsions. Symptoms can be as short as a few days or can last several weeks. Yes, there can be residual problems.

WNV is most often spread by the bite of an infected mosquito. The mosquito becomes infected when they feed on infected birds, the main source of the virus. In a very small number of cases, WNV also has been spread through blood transfusions, organ transplants, breastfeeding and even during pregnancy from an infected mother to her fetus. The virus is not spread from human to human or animal to human. Usually, the virus is not spread through casual contact such as touching, kissing or having sex with a person with the virus. People typically develop symptoms between 3 and 14 days after they are bitten by the infected mosquito.

There is no vaccine to protect against the WNV and none is on the immediate horizon. There is no specific treatment for WNV. Currently, treatment is mainly symptomatic and supportive. Mild symptoms usually pass without medical attention. If you develop severe headaches or confusion, seek medical attention immediately. People over the age of 50 and immune suppressed individuals are more likely to develop serious symptoms of WNV.

Everyone should avoid becoming infected with WNV.

The easiest way to prevent WNV is to prevent mosquito bites. When you are outdoors, personal protection is a key, so use insect repellent containing DEET. Wear long sleeves and pants when mosquitoes are most active — at dusk and dawn. Keep mosquitoes out of your home with good screens and windows.

A joint effort by the public, local municipal authorities and the Public Health department to get rid of mosquito breeding sites will help to prevent the spread of this virus. The keys are to empty standing water from flowerpots, buckets, and barrels. Get rid of old tires and other items that can collect water. Cooperate with spraying activities to kill the mosquitoes. If you find a dead bird, don't handle the body with your bare hands. Contact your local health department for instructions on reporting and disposing of the body. Prostate Cancer Education and Screening Set for Thursday, July 29, at H Street Clinic

First-of-its-kind event is especially for African-American men 35 or older

The Black Voice News

SAN BERNARDINO

The sixth event in a series of 16 summertime healthcare programs will be conducted from 5 to 8 p.m. Thursday, July 29, at the H Street Community Clinic (1329 North H St., San Bernardino). It will focus on education about and screening for prostate cancer—especially, but not exclusively, for African-American men 35 years or older. The program is free and open to the public.

"This is the first event of its kind in San Bernardino," says the Rev. David Kalke, executive director of Central City Lutheran Mission, on whose campus the clinic is located. "We think it's absolutely essential to offer such education and testing, because the prostate-cancer mortality rate in this city, among African-Americans, is the highest in the world. And so we're hoping to have

Community Supports SCLC Town Hall Meeting

The Black Voice News

RIVERSIDE

Many speakers came forth this past Saturday during the town hall meeting conducted by the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) at the Marriott Hotel in Riverside. One female participant sobbed through her presentation because of the hurt and shame of being discriminated against by the city of Riverside. "I do not want anyone else to suffer what I have suffered as a result of discrimination," she stated.

The city has had ongoing suits of alleged discrimination for the past several years, but has refused to resolve them, according to Greg Pratt, one of the complainants.

"The city has settled with many White employees who have filed reverse discrimination complaints, but for some reason, Judge Trimlin has not moved forward the Black employees' lawsuit,"

James Baylark National Leadership

Rev. James Baylark, Head of the Riverside Branch of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), is once again getting a head start on the process of citizen involvement by recently hosting a town hall meeting focusing on voter education. This could be one of the reasons why he was nominated to head the National Board of the SCLC out of Atlanta, Georgia. The SCLC is the organization founded by the late Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. When I mentioned to Rev. Baylark that it was an honor to receive this recognition, he responded, "Bro. Brown, all I want to do is pastor a church and preach God's word." I said, that is what King said when they came to him to lead the protest to get Rosa Parks out of jail; and, as you know the rest is history. Like Dr. Martin Luther King, all one has to have is a desire to do good and then do the best that he/she can with what God has given them.

These good deeds have not gone unnoticed in Baylark's case. In small communities, we have people heading local chapters of the NAACP, NCNW, pastoring local churches, serving as presidents of sororities, fraternities, lodges, chambers of commerce and other organizations. The question is, how many have been nominated for national leadership?

Do we sometimes think that we come from too small of a town or no one would listen to us? During the time of Jesus, the question of the day was could anything good come out of Nazareth? No one heard of David until Samuel located this small stature of a boy guarding sheep. Not many people heard of Montgomery, Alabama before the bus boycott. Not many people heard of Greensboro, North Carolina before students had a "sit-in at the counter."

I say all of this to congratulate Rev. Baylark and to motivate all of us that, regardless of our location or status in life, we can be anything we want to be. Be all that you can be because somebody is watching your works or non-works. Rev. Baylark does not even know who nominated him but somebody noticed the work he is doing in Riverside County and said he has guts, backbone and know-how.

Jackie Robinson couldn't understand why he was selected to be the first Black American to play professional baseball since there were better Black players than himself in the Negro League. Gideon is still trying to figure out why he was selected to fight a battle when others were more qualified than he. Paul is still trying to figure out why he was selected to preach the Gospel since he killed so many Christians. Some things we will never completely understand but just learn to dribble the ball when it is thrown to us. Rev. Baylark, you will have to learn to preach to a bigger audience if selected to be the president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

The Streets: Only the Lost Survive

Good self-esteem is essential for healthy mental growth. Most of the youth who aspire to be gangsters and other antisocial pursuits haven't been given a healthy diet of good self-esteem. Unfortunately, too many parents are without parenting skills. Parenting skills are mostly passed along from one generation to the next. If a youth comes from a substandard environment, it is unlikely that they will automatically have good parenting skills. Most young single parents still want to party regularly, which includes getting high, being promiscuous and staying out late. It's considered an insult to a young, inexperienced parent to suggest that they could benefit from parenting classes. Therefore, the avalanche of children raising children continues to plummet downhill.

The youth refer to 'The Street' as a badge of honor, tantamount to a Masters Degree from a prestigious university. It used to be an inner city thing, now however, youth in the country claim to have been brought up on 'The Street'. I have a nephew that finished high school approximately ten years ago. He recently got into an argument with one of his younger cousins who's in her last year of law school. The argument had nothing to do with education; it was a dispute over the price of a used washing machine and dryer that he offered to sell for one price, then raised the price on the pick up day. The younger cousin argued that he must stick to the agreed price, but he became belligerent, claiming that she was ignorant because she was using 'school sense' but he was using 'street sense'. And on the 'Street' where he claimed to have been raised, such tactics are acceptable.

The term 'hustling' is ambiguous. It can be used to mean hard working. Or, it can be used to refer to a smalltime crook. A person could be considered a hustler when he worked a full-time job, went to school or had a part time job, plus operated his own small business on the side. This was a hustler, but not necessarily a criminal. The term from 'The Street' is also misused by African American youth. In many foreign countries, such as Mexico, Brazil and India, there are real 'Street' children in real ghettos. These street youth are homeless. They eat scraps from the dumpsters behind restaurants and panhandle pedestrians and tourists. Our youth call themselves being from 'The Street' because they choose being thugs and drug dealers versus securing an education and/or an experience compatible job. African American youth make a foolish but willful decision to decline the free educational opportunities available, which will lead to a high paying profession. The 'Street' they boast about is a game losers play when they fear the challenge in the real world of working for what you get.

As a reward for their life as a street kid, all they have to look forward to is ultimately a low wage job because they failed to go forward in school when the light of opportunity was green. There's a red light ahead for the so-called street youth. We as mature adults must organize to teach the truth. Some of the celebrities we applaud are equal to the Africans that sold other Africans into slavery. We must teach our youth not to be blinded by the lure of ill-gotten wealth. Any concerned mature adult can become a mentor to a youth. It doesn't take money, just compassion.

Americans Should Focus on Value of New Medication Therapies

By Kerri Houston, Vice President, Frontiers of Freedom

America has been sold a bill of goods on the "cost" of pharmaceuticals. In a transparent effort to demonstrate public outrage on behalf of their constituents, some misguided politicians pontificate endlessly about the price of a pill. But what they never discuss is the "value."

As a result of the increased value of new pharmaceuticals to patients and the savings they create within the healthcare system, overall spending on prescription drugs has risen in recent years. Doctors now use drugs as a more effective, less painful and cheaper substitute for invasive surgical procedures and prolonged medical intervention. Yet drugs still account for just 10 cents out of every healthcare dollar!

A perfect example is the new drug therapy for ischemic strokes which are responsible for 80% of stroke cases and occur when an artery in the brain becomes blocked or narrowed. Strokes can cause weakness or paralysis and devastating loss of speech or vision. In the past, recovery took months of costly rehabilitation in the hospital or nursing home, with the patient often unable to live independently again.

This doesn't have to happen anymore, and often, it doesn't.

That is because pharmaceutical companies developed a clot-busting drug called "tPA" which, when administered early during an ischemic stroke, dissolves the clot, preventing further damage and disability. The cost of administering the drug is about $1,700. (Gasp!) But, according to the National Institute of Health, using tPA saves $4,400 in hospitalization and nursing home care alone. The value of the drug, both in hard and soft measures - to patient, family and system - is incalculable.

A further illustration of this point: Thomas Jefferson University Hospital found that treating heart failure patients with innovative drug regimens resulted in a 15% increase in medication expenses, with total spending dropping by a remarkable 28%. Another study showed that patients on new congestive heart failure drugs avoided nearly $9,000 in hospital costs over a three-year period.

Medication advances benefit each of us. I used to get migraines. They hurt - a lot, and I couldn't work. Now I take Imitrex and the migraine is gone at first twinge. A study from the American Journal of Managed Care shows that the cost of treating migraine patients fell 41% because of new drug therapies, not including the toll of lost wages on sufferers. I'd like to calculate the value to my children, my employer and myself associated with the cost of my $12 migraine pill, but I really can't.

Instead of fussing at pharmaceutical companies for the cost of innovative medications, we should be begging for more. But to hear some politicians tell it, this increase in medication spending is a national crisis, requiring innovation-killing government-imposed price controls and risking patient safety with the illegal importation of non-U.S. produced foreign pharmaceuticals. They are dead wrong.

The solution to drug affordability is a combination of the new Medicare Discount Drug cards, individual-based insurance plans, vigorous insurance market competition, and targeted government premium support - but not assaulting the golden goose of treatment.

It's time for our politicians to do what is best for us and direct their outrage at diseases, and not the treatments that cure them.

My Dad has Alzheimer's. He's been taking Aricept for many years, and I believe it has added at least two years to our ability to communicate. The cost? Who cares. The value? Priceless.

Ancient African thinking abilities were the envy of the entire ancient world. Evidence of the timelessness of their genius is that their poetic synthesis thinking remains the method of choice for solving any type of problem faced by today's Black Americans. Although I strongly recommend teaching the method to Black youth, it is not easy to lay it out into a clear and easy process. Furthermore, it requires hard work to understand and internalize. But the reward is wisdom -- a type of wisdom you can use every day and in every way to help you get what you ought to have and not get what you ought not to have. The student intent on being successful in life will have to fill in the gaps, strengthen the weaknesses, and expand upon what I will now present. We start together to eat this massive and complex elephant of a subject by taking one bite at a time. The first bite chosen, African proverbs consist of a mental pearl alloyed with the gold of African wisdom. Furthermore, proverbs are a Sample of the whole process of poetic synthesis thinking, reduced to "postage stamp" size.

African proverbs are found in the Hebrew Bible and their ancestors came out of the period Egyptian text called the Instructions of Ame-em-Opat (10th century BC). Proverbs and acorns are mirror images in one respect. Whereas the inside of an acorn contains its destiny to grow into a tall oak tree, the little African proverb contains "bits and pieces" of most all the situational experiences of prior African ancestors. African proverbs are Philosophical because they deal with Values (i.e. life-shaping principles guiding choices, decisions, and solutions). The material found in the core of a proverb may range from the oldest forms of African religions and philosophical wisdom (Mbiti, African Religions and Philosophy p 86, 2) all the way over to African traditional beliefs and observed facts. Usually the contents refer to feelings, emotions, attitudes, and habitual co-operative activity. Proverbs serve as guides to instructing children; as releases for pent up emotions; or as a display of eloquence in speech. A capsulized example of African poetic synthesis thinking that produced a proverb is: "what an old man sees sitting down, a young man cannot see standing up." One meaning is that properly interpreted experiences and features of maturity enable one to see hidden or invisible links of similar or opposite things -- known as the Law of Sympathy. On the way to achievements, such vision increases one's range of options concerning choices, decisions, or solutions.

Poetic African Proverbs

The key to expanding one's philosophical vision is to assess a proverb in all of its planes of existence and meanings. For example, before wisely reacting to the arrogant youth, the "old man" considers the whole situation from the perspective of the ancestral spirits; of the African magico-religious life; of the circumstances the youth faces; of the proper message to convey; of the effects his message will have; and of the kind of message most likely to be received by the brash youth so as to be acted upon. Then the old man chooses a special poetic synthesized proverb to counsel the youth because of its smoothness, subtly, indirectness, and depth of penetration. Since it originates out of African tradition, the proverb has been repeatedly tested by going through the African society filter and has shown its ability to help create, enhance, and maintain harmony in the community. In other words, out of the filter of societal poetic synthesis thinking, a distillate drop of the best of African thought emerges. To do this requires all of one's mental faculties.

ernor and expressed "disappointment and concern" over the administration's "noncompliance" with some of his earlier orders aimed at system wide prison reform.

Dave Gilb, Chief of Labor Relations for the California Department of Personnel Administration, says, "We are the first to admit this agreement is not perfect. We would have preferred to achieve more savings and give absolutely nothing in return. However, it's a better deal than the contract we inherited from the previous administration and, as with any negotiation, some comproconflict to disqualify it. Attorney Bradley Neufeld's involvement in the case raised eyebrows as well.

According to the law firm's web site, Neufeld's practice is based on the representation of management in all aspects of employment law. He has represented local governments against claims filed by employees to the Department of Labor, Office for Civil Rights, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission and the Department of Fair Employment and Housing. Last year, he was retained by the city of Riverside to investigate two Black employees who filed a racial discrimination and harassment law suit against Riverside in 1997. According to a letter from the City Attorney's office, Riverside spent over $17,000 in relation to Neufeld's services for this investigation, which was viewed as the latest retaliatory action launched against several remaining plaintiffs in that case.

Conflict of interest allegations involving several companies with family links to Komers were not sustained. Even though a company owned by Komers' son Ward was paid $16,700 by the county, the county's Auditor-Controller division determined that there was no conflict of interest involved in this transaction in 2002.

Allegations of funding problems with the Temporary Assistance Pool program were not sustained, even though a previous grand jury released a highly critical report stating problems with how the program was operated including favoritism, nepotism and abuse of employment compensation.

Allegations of racist language used by Komers and other employees were not sustained. According to the report, few statements could be confirmed, and if they could be, then they were somehow determined not to be legally or illegally "racially charged."

Representatives from the Group and the NAACP in Riverside spoke out against the findings and urged the county to conduct an independent, impartial investigation. They said they respected Clarke, Jr., but did not believe the investigation could be done fairly and justly unless conducted by an independent outside party.

"We respect Mr. Clarke, but we respectfully disagree with his firm's report," Woodie Ruckermise is necessary."

Governor Schwarzenegger's administration stands by the pact: "We think the agreement is fiscally responsible, surrenders no management rights and is worthy of the Legislature's support." After his election, the Governor called the pact excessive. He pledged to win back as much as $300 million in pay and benefits from the guards to help bail the state out of its financial mess.

Recently, the head of the State's Correctional Department met with Black ministerial and newspaper representatives. Calling the nation's largest system (32 prisons, 162,000 inmates and 49,000 employees) "broken," Roderick Q. Hickman says, "We must stop the cycle of victimization of inmates."

Forty percent of African-American males are in the criminal justice system, either by being on probation, on parole or in prison. Hickman says one of many challenges is to keep the released prison population from returning to prison, a major part of Judge Henderson's reform order.

Local Black leaders and prison reform advocates welcomed Henderson's takeover warning, claiming such action is imperative to ensure reform. Prison oversight by federal judges is not unheard of, but experts say placing day-to-day operation of an entire correctional system under an outsider would be unprecedented.

employee involved in that confidential investigation was on paid administrative leave and subject to disciplinary proceedings. He asked Freeman if that person was her.

"Are you that employee," Buster asked. Freeman stood up to answer.

"I did not see a name on the grand jury report," she said, "I had the same report everyone else did. I did not see a name."

One answer was not enough for Buster, as he grilled Freeman with the question again and again, and she repeated her answer. Freeman then told him that if he was going to add to the grand jury report or write it, he should let people know about it.

The other supervisors limited their comments to their past personal and working relationships with Clarke, who is Black, which served as an effective buffer between themselves and the allegations of racism among Riverside County employees. As is usual, the dialog turned away from addressing racial discrimination and harassment and towards White governmental officials insisting that they are not racist, or that they know what is racist.

Supervisor John Tavaglione said that the racial and ethnic breakdown of employee hirings and promotions matched county census statistics.

"We are right on target in terms of hiring," Tavaglione said, adding that the promotional statistics of African-Americans in the Human Resources Department were triple those in the census.

Komers, while addressing the supervisors, said he was not a racist, nor corrupt, and he did not manipulate employee records.

"It takes a lot of strength and good ethics not to succumb to pressure," he said. Clarke, Jr. and the supervisors praised his character. Others have praised Freeman for showing those qualifications as well.

Community activists and governmental watchdogs have vowed to continue applying pressure to elected officials on this issue. They have made it clear that they are not going away until justice is done.

a strong turnout of men from that group in particular."

According to Kalke, the event will begin with a community barbecue picnic, from 5 to 6 p.m. The next hour will be devoted to providing specific information about prostate cancer, with sessions in English and Spanish in the clinic's two "smart" classrooms. Finally, from 7 to 8 p.m., principal presenter Anita Kinser—a nursing specialist with a doctorate in education and a faculty member in the California State University—San Bernardino nursing department—will answer questions about prostate cancer. Blood tests will also be conducted during that third hour.

Joining CCLM in sponsoring this event are the African-American Health Initiative (AAHI) and St. Bernardine's Medical Center, which will supervise the testing and evaluate blood samples at its lab. Both are based in San Bernardino.

Diane Woods is health-planning project coordinator for AAHI, whose goal is to mobilize various community resources in San Bernardino County to improve the health of African-Americans. "Because prostate cancer is a pandemic among African-American men here, we're very pleased to be playing a key role in this event," Woods says. "Education about this and other health challenges is crucial, obviously. We feel our collaboration with the H Street Clinic and St. Bernardine's is a significant step in that ongoing process."

In Kalke's words, it's a "precedent-setting collaboration that brings to bear the distinct resources of a research center, a hospital and a neighborhood clinic."

Previous programs in this series have spotlighted heart health, skin cancer, asthma, smoking and sexually transmitted diseases. The series, which will continue throughout the summer, is an expression of the H Street Clinic's Community Health Accountability Project, funded in part by a generous grant from Illinois-based Wheat Ridge Ministries.

Operated in partnership with California State University—San Bernardino, the H Street Clinic is a community-based facility that primarily serves people of color during nontraditional hours with culturally sensitive healthcare. The clinic is a ministry of Central City Lutheran Mission, a community of partners assisting people on the margins of society, empowering people with health, hope, dignity and life-changing opportunities. CCLM is part of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America and also a member of Lutheran Services in America—a coalition of faith-based agencies that assists some 6 million persons in need each year. stated Rev James Baylark, President of SCLC and host of the town hall meeting.

Debra Freeman, Riverside County employee, reminded the audience of the report issued by Best, Best, & Krieger, which found no evidence to support her allegations of corruption, discrimination, and nepotism, which she found troubling but not surprising. "We must turn out at the Board of Supervisors and at the ballot box to show them we have the power in our hands," she stated.

The panel of speakers who spoke on a variety of topics included: Carolyn Ball, Barbara Ellis, Richard Meyer, Robert Burk, Steve Harmon, Rev. Steven Mitchell, Rev Reginald Beamon, Greg Pratt, Debra Freeman and Hardy Brown.

Rev. Baylark said this meeting was a starting point to give the people a sense of awareness on the importance of voting and how important it is to register and vote, not just in November, but all the time.

Rialto High School Named for Local Community Leader

The Black Voice News

On Saturday, October 9, 2004, the Rialto Unified School District in Southern California will dedicate its third hi-tech state-of-the-art comprehensive high school named in honor of a living African American woman in California.

When Wilmer Amina Carter was born the granddaughter of Anderson Carter, a traveling schoolteacher in rural Neshoba County, Mississippi, she never conceived that her adopted City of Rialto, California would name a High School in her honor - Wilmer Amina Carter High School.

The honor was bestowed upon her in recognition of a lifelong dedication to people in many ways:

Carter served as a Congressional District Director for California's longest serving Congressman, the late George Brown, and as a Rialto Unified School District Board member for 4 terms - 16 years.

She was also recognized by President Jimmy Carter in a White House ceremony, for working to create the model for the nation's transition from school to work high school education program.

Carter continued her service as the Assistant Administrator of the Educational Opportunity Program for California State University in San Bernardino, as well as a member of The National Council of Negro Women, Inc, helping have the Black town of Allensworth, California named to the state and national historic registries.

She also served as part of an evaluation team for the National Council of Negro Women's programs in Senegal, Kenya and Swaziland, along with many other accomplishments.

Amina is a dedicated community leader who models herself after Dr. Mary McLeod Bethune. She has worked on national, regional and local programs to advance the education of young people and advance the unity of all people.

Helping Latinos and Blacks Live Longer in San Bernardino County

The Black Voice News

RIALTO

"Thanks to the African American Health Initiative we now understand why Blacks die 13 years younger than whites in San Bernardino County; it is unequal healthcare treatment. Now, Loma Linda University is conducting a similar survey among Latinos in the county to find out why we die at an average age of 56 for men and 62 for women, also 13 years younger than Whites, and we expect to receive similar findings," said Josie Gonzales, Fontana City councilperson and candidate for the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors in the fifth district.

"As soon as they look at the patient and see he's an African-American or Latino, they assume automatically that he doesn't have insurance at all," said a Hispanic physician, sharing perceptions about his colleagues in a Report from the Institute of Medicine's Unequal Treatment: Confronting Racial and Ethnic Disparities in Health Care.

According to the recent national survey, some U.S. minorities believe they would receive better health care if they were of a different race or ethnicity. A new Institute of Medicine report presents compelling evidence supporting these perceptions.

Minorities tend to receive lower-quality health care than whites do, even when insurance status, income, age and severity of conditions are comparable, says Unequal Treatment: Confronting Racial and Ethnic Disparities in Health Care. Although myriad sources contribute to these disparities, some evidence suggests that bias, prejudice, and stereotyping on the part of health care providers may contribute to differences in care.

"While many look for the Josie Gonzales, Fontana City councilperson and candidate for the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors in the fifth district, looks to the solutions that work to help all of us live longer, healthier lives.

solution to deliver quality and equal healthcare treatment, the AAHI and 60,000 low income residents of San Bernardino County have already found one solution- La Salle Medical Association," said Gonzales.

In recent Town Hall meetings, the AAHI presented Dr. Albert Arteaga, founder and owner of La Salle Medical Associates, as a model provider. Dr. Arteaga shared with the audience how his clinics help people. "Availability, Availability, Availability."

According to Dr. Arteaga, "We must be open when our patients need to see us, early, late and on weekends. We must take our patients however they come, late, without an appointment or with two or three children when they made an appointment for one, and of course quality care is a given."

"When I started my practice 20 years ago my colleagues told me I had to train my patients to show up on time by making them reschedule if they were late, and not to take walk-ins," said Arteaga.

"But I figured that the only person I was punishing was the sick child, so I didn't do that. I took all patients, no matter how they came; now I have five clinics and last year we had over 110,000 patient visits," said Arteaga.

"And you know, patients may be late at first, but after a while they come on time. They make appointments and they bring in their shot records and any medicines received while away and become model patients. They do this because we were patient with them and we treated them with respect," said Arteaga.

Another myth in healthcare is that you can't make money seeing Medi-Cal or poor patients. Dr. Arteaga dispels that fairy tale as virtually all of his patients are low income. "When you factor in the reimbursement period for traditional insurance, I make almost as much money from a Medi-Cal patient as from any other insurance," said Dr. Arteaga.

One way Dr. Arteaga profits is to help patients who don't have health insurance find and enroll in the program that fits their needs. His efforts pay off for his patients and his practice.

"Dr Arteaga is the largest enroller of the Healthy Families program in the State of California," said Gonzales. "He has enrolled over 20,000 children in the state and federally sponsored health insurance program for low to moderate-income families," she added.

The La Salle staff is trained to enroll uninsured patients into one of the many government sponsored programs available. If patients do not qualify for any insurance programs, instead of billing a large fee, then sending the patient to collections and eventually writing it off when they don't pay, La Salle charges the patient 15 dollars. "The way I look at it, that is 15 dollars I would not have had," said Arteaga.

"Local hospitals are losing millions of dollars a month from treating the uninsured, yet the only hospital that has trained staff to help patients find the insurance that meets their needs is Arrowhead Medical Center. We need all of the hospitals in the county to implement a plan to help match healthcare insurance programs to the uninsured. If we can help two out of ten uninsured people get insurance it would save millions of dollars a year and help keep our hospitals open," said Gonzales.

"As the son of an Adventist minister, Dr. Arteaga is dedicated to delivering the best healthcare possible for his patients. He also demands his staff, from the receptionist to the doctors, treat people with dignity, compassion and respect," said Gonzales.

"La Salle Medical Associates has created a system that delivers quality healthcare for Latinos, Blacks, Whites and Asians. We must use successful healthcare examples like La Salle. By working together with insurance companies and doctors we can deliver quality healthcare to San Bernardino County residents, regardless of ethnicity or income. I will work with the healthcare system to implement the solutions that increase the health and long life of all of the residents of San Bernardino County," said Gonzales.

La Salle Medical Associates has five clinics in San Bernardino County: two in San Bernardino, and one each in Hesperia, Lake Elsinore and Fontana. For an appointment or information, call Mt. Vernon in San Bernardino (909) 884-9091, 17th Street in San Bernardino (909) 887-6494, Fontana (909) 823-4454, Hesperia (760) 947-2161 or Lake Elsinore (909) 674-5686. The Corporate office is (909) 890-0407.

Ernest LEVISTER, JR.
F.A.C.P. F.A.C.P.M.

Dear Dr. Levister: My wife raves about the benefits of Pilates. The exercises have helped to improve her posture and increased her strength and flexibility. Her Pilates classes are mostly women. Is this a workout for men?

A.P

Dear A.P. Pilates is not just for women. In fact, Joseph H. Pilates, a boxer, circus performer, and a self-defense trainer of English detectives developed the workout. He honed his method with the New York City police force after leaving England in 1926.

Although such notables as actors Danny Glover, Samuel L. Jackson and NBA star Jason Kidd have endorsed Pilates - exercises that strengthen core muscles while increasing flexibility - many guys still consider it a workout for women. A new DVD, "Pilates for Men," hopes to dispel that myth.

"Pilates for Men"

The 30-minute video includes basic Pilates moves such as the hundred, the double-leg stretch and the corkscrew. Instructor Alisa Wyatt says "Pilates for Men," is not a beginner's workout, and suggests some basic knowledge of Pilates is helpful. In the video Wyatt explains each exercise and its importance. Although she demonstrates with two men - a triathlete and a marathon runner -- she says her video workout is designed for all men, from the serious athlete to the guy seeking muscle tone and strength.

The Pilates method engages the section of the body between the bottom of the rib cage and the line across the hips, which Joseph Pilates called the Powerhouse. Virtually all Pilates exercises work the Powerhouse and can lead to a flatter belly and a stronger lower back. The workout emphasizes the use of core abdominal muscles working in concert with concentration and controlled breathing to tone, strengthen, improve posture, and stimulate the circulatory system. Pilates is also recommended for senior citizens because it helps prevent bone deterioration.

Instructor Wyatt, a Pilates teacher in New York City, said she chose to do a video for men because many of the exercises reflect what men want (stronger abs) and what they need (more flexibility). "Pilates for Men," $24.99 for the DVD, is available at www.pilatesmen.com.

bring the I.E. "Young Hollywood Celebrity Weekend." This was an exciting, entertaining and fun celebrity event to benefit youth who otherwise might not have an opportunity to see and interact with young Hollywood celebrities. The event organizer's goal was to raise the awareness level of the youth and families they serve, and to give them hope to pursue their passion and dreams.

The weekend included: a "Connect with Your Fans Booth," where celebrities signed autographs, took pictures and talked with their Department," with the local law enforcement basketball team competing against celebrities in a competitive, yet fun, basketball game. Half-time was unforgettable as the entertainment continued with celebrity performances, a dunking contest, and more. On Sunday, "Celebrities Speak Out To Inland Youth" shared their hearts and provided encouragement to youth.

The event was located at CrossWord Christian Church, 14950 Riverside Drive.

3rd Annual USA & World Hip-Hop Championship Set Aug. 5-8

The Black Voice News

LOS ANGELES

Dance Icon Debbie Allen and "You Got Served" Choreographer Dave Scott will be among judges to select the World's Best Hip Hop Crews August 8th at the Redondo Beach Performing Arts Center in LOS ANGELES, CA.

Hip-Hop dance crews from across America and the world are coming to Los Angeles to compete for street dance supremacy at the USA and World Hip-Hop Championships August 5-8.

The USA Championship August 5 & 6 provides the nation's top dancers with a venue to showcase both old school moves and new school styles, along with the opportunity to advance to the World Hip-Hop Championship August 7 & 8 to compete against international crews selected in their home countries. Qualifying rounds will be held August 5 & 7 at the Manhattan Beach Marriott Hotel with the USA and World Finals conducted August 6 & 8 at the Redondo Beach Performing Arts Center.

Judging the final competition on Sunday August 8th will be Debbie Allen, who continues to be one of the most respected, relevant and versatile talents in the entertainment industry today.

"Hip-Hop is one of the most powerful languages spoken all over the world today. A festival like this one closes the gap between the street and the studio," explained Allen.

The judging panel will also include Choreographer Dave Scott, who has danced his way into a multi-faceted career encompassing choreography, music and films, which includes working with the best and hottest from B2K to Brian McKnight and Olympic gold medalist Tara Lipinski. Scott was Supervising Choreographer in the film "You Got Served," where he choreographed and arranged the entire movie, which included 11 battle scenes, 15 crews, and a multitude of dance scenes similar to what will be presented at the 3rd USA & World Hip-Hop Championships.

"Hip-Hop is a universal language and is strong with Freestyle, where freestyle is your style. The competition gives dancers the opportunity to get on the floor and bring it on and never stop," said Scott.

Dave Scott

This year, the competition welcomes crews from over 15 countries, including China, New Zealand, Trinidad, Tobago, Brazil and Japan, to compete for the 2004 world title. Dance crews will consist of a minimum of five to a maximum of eight members, and may be made up of any combination of males and females. The competition is produced and organized by Hip-Hop International, the creators and producers of the USA and World Sport aerobic Championships, which have been broadcast on ESPN for the past 15 years to over 230 million homes and 170 countries. The dance crews will be divided into juniors ages 7-12, varsity ages 12-17 and Adult ages 18 and older. For tickets please visit www.hiphopinternational.com or call (800) 669-5867. Tickets will also be available at the door the day of each event.

Get Set for a Healthy Summer

The Black Voice News

ROSEMEAD

Southern California Edison (SCE) is joining the American Red Cross and the Congress of California Seniors to urge SCE customers to stay comfortable, cool and healthy during the hot summer months ahead.

"At SCE, we understand that the summer time can be uncomfortable for our customers living in hot, dry climates. This is especially true for infants, young children, seniors, and those with chronic medical conditions," said Suzanne Middelburg, SCE's manager of Consumer Affairs. "That's why we have heat safety tips at SCE's Web site, www.sce.com/summer, to help keep our customers cool and comfortable while managing their electric costs."

SCE's Web site includes information on:

- Rebates for qualifying energy-efficient products, such as programmable thermostats, pool pumps and ducted evaporative coolers.
- Keeping thermostats set to 78 degrees, a simple way to stay cool and keep energy costs down.

- The California Alternate Rates for Energy (CARE) program, which provides a 20% discount on electric rates for income-qualified customers.
- The Medical Baseline program, which allows additional electric usage, charged at the lowest rate, if someone in the household has a medical condition that requires the use of electrically powered equipment or has a qualifying illness. A doctor's certification is required.

"The American Red Cross supports SCE's efforts to prevent heat-related illnesses and help its customers manage their electric bills," said Dereck Andrade, the organization's public affairs state lead. "Together, we are helping residents in Southern California stay cool, comfortable and healthy."

Tips for preventing heat-related illnesses are available on the Red Cross Web site, www.redcross.org/services/hss/tips/heat.h tml, and include:

- Wear a hat and light-weight, light-colored clothing on hot, sunny days
- Drink water or other non-caffeine, non-alcoholic beverages
- Eat small

"Hot weather can stress seniors' strength and budget," according to Hank Lacayo, President of the Congress of California Seniors. "We're encouraging seniors to stay healthy on hot days by keeping hydrated and cool."

For more information on SCE's programs and services, please call (800) 655-4555.

Crafton Hills College Workforce Development August 2004 Courses

The Black Voice News

YUCAIPA

The Crafton Hills College (CHC) Workforce Development program is a fee-based, not-for-credit alternative to the college's academic program. The following classes will be offered in the month of August 2004:

Food Worker Certificate Course

San Bernardino County Code requires that all food workers employed in San Bernardino County MUST possess a valid, unexpired food worker's certification. This includes (but not limited to) cooks, dishwashers, hosts, hostesses, managers, meat cutters, deli persons, caterers, bartenders, etc. Participants will receive the required certification with the successful completion of the class. Certifications are valid for three years.

Courses are now available:

Tuesday August 3, 2004 6:00 p.m. - 8:00 p.m.

Crafton Hills College Bookstore Complex, Room 105

Thursday August 5, 2004 2:30 p.m. - 4:30 p.m.

Employment Dev. Dept. (814 W. Colton, Redlands) 2:00 p.m. Registration

Wednesday August 11, 2004 6:00 p.m. - 8:00 p.m.

Crafton Hills College Bookstore Complex, Room 105

Tuesday August 17, 2004 2:30 p.m. - 4:30 p.m.

Employment Dev. Dept. (814 W. Colton, Redlands) 2:00 p.m. Registration

Monday August 23, 2004 6:00 p.m. - 8:00 p.m.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF CHARLES NELSON BAKER, SR.
CASE NUMBER 86349
To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of Charles Nelson Baker, Sr. A petition for Probate has been filed by: Michael M. Baker in the Superior Court of California, Coutny of Riverside. The Petition for Probate requests that Michael M. Baker be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent. The Petition requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should grant the authority. A Hearing on the petition will be held on 9/7/04 at 9:00 a.m. in Dept. 10, 4050 Main Street, Riverside, CA 92501. If You Object to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney. If You Are A Creditor or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in Probate Code section 9100. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above. You May Examine the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk. Petitioner: Michael M. Baker. s/...Michael M. Baker

A Petition for Probate has been filed by: Todd Helfenstine in the Superior Court of California, Coutny of Riverside. The Petition for Probate requests that Todd Helfenstine be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent. The Petition requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority. A Hearing on the petition will be held on September 1, 2004 at 9:00 a.m. in Dept. 10, 4050 Main Street, Riverside, CA 92501. If You Object to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney. If You Are A Creditor or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in Probate Code section 9100. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above. You May Examine the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk. Petitioner: Elliott Luchs s/...Elliott Luchs
